Wondering about the most common dyslexia symptoms?

Children can begin to show signs of dyslexia as early as the preschool years. While every person with dyslexia is unique, there are common symptoms that can serve as red flags for dyslexia.

Use our online list of the 20 Common Symptoms of Dyslexia to help you identify if your child is at risk. Here are 5 of them, but you can go to the Lexercise website to see the entire list by scanning the QR code below:

- 1 Stronger ability to understand when listening than when reading
- 2 Difficulty reading words, especially in isolation, without a sentence context
- 3 Difficulty spelling
- 4 Low confidence and/or anxiety connected with reading and writing tasks
- 5 Difficulty writing letters legibly and maybe including letter or number reversals
